

Mon 6/13/2016 4:35 PM

drupal_admin <drupal_admin@epa.gov>

Harbor Comments

To ☐ HarborComments

We removed extra line breaks from this message.

Submitted on 06/13/2016 6:34PM

Submitted values are:

Your Name: (b) (6)

Your Email: (b) (6)

Your Comments:

What a Disappointment!

Covering your eyes and pretending the toxins aren't there... This is the solution? Or what you call monitoring? We know what is going to be there in 30 years because the toxins have been there for 30 years already and will continue to be there until they are removed; completely and forever.

Cleaning 10% of the area... This is what you call a Cleanup Plan? When you clean your house do you clean 10% of it? When you send your car through the car wash do you pay them to wash 10%? If someone was to vandalize your property would you want them to clean 10% of it and you cover the entire cost? Of course not. Cleaning only 10% of the area is ridiculous. The toxic chemicals need to be removed from the entire area, as much as humanly possible and the polluters need to pay.

There are good parts to the plan like the 30 year monitoring, but that needs to be done after a thorough cleanup is done on the entire superfund site.

Don't kick this can down the road any further. It's time for all parties to be responsible and clean up this mess created from ignorance, lack of oversight, lack of self responsibility, poor foresight and profit being put over people.